Tekcapital invited to participate at the Marketing & Technology Transfer Hub for the Americas in Chile

Tekcapital plc (AIM: TEK), the UK intellectual property (IP) investment group focused on creating marketplace value from university technology, announces that it will be delivering a master class at the Marketing and Technology Transfer Hub for the Americas® in Santiago, Chile on September 6th 2018.

The Marketing and Technology Transfer Hub for the Americas® is a high-level training program aimed at entrepreneurs and technology transfer professionals in the Latin American region, interested in developing and bringing their innovative products and services "from idea to market." The HUB is organized by the Organization of American States (OAS), the University of Development, the UC Davis Chile Center of Excellence, the National Council of Science and Technology of Mexico and the Center for Biological Research of the Northwest.

Dr Gross, Tekcapital’s CEO, said: "We are excited to be part of this prestigious international program in Latin America. This activity builds on our initial training program delivered in Chile last May and in Mexico last year. We are also in discussions for similar types of programs in Brazil, the largest market in Latin America.

We are grateful for the terrific work of our team members Maria Kowalski, Business Development Manager for Latin American and Spain, and Michael Rosen, Managing Director of Academic and Entrepreneurship Training, for their contribution to this initiative."
